Fantasy Grounds is a great tool to create your own games, and a nice feature with its stat cards is how it can be divided into various color groups and compartments for different kinds of statistics (Attack, Defense, Speed, etc.). Since it's a modeling program, Fantasy Grounds can also be used to generate 3D graphics for your dice, tokens, and stat cards. With Monster Grin's set of Frequent Foes token packs, you can augment your Fantasy Grounds game with over 150 tokens for every creature you can think of! All monster player characters (the ones you can play in the RPG game) and randomly generated elementals are included. Please read the included text file for more detailed information on how to install the tokens to your Fantasy Grounds game. Monster Grin's Frequent Foes token packs were created and designed by James Holloway. "If you're asking if we're gonna make another one, then the answer is yes. We made two of them, we are going to make more of them, we love them and we want more people to have them! Welcome to America and to Fantasy Grounds! Your GM's friends and your players and their friends and your friends and other players who are new to Fantasy Grounds should all have these tokens, whether they play online or off."- Monster Grin Studios, Inc. Pick up this Monster Grin Frequent Foes token pack today! For the full list of all Monster Grin's token packs, check out our comprehensive Fantasy Grounds Token Pack Catalog.The NCAA Division I Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) conference announced the move, according to a Thursday statement from Ohio State. Penn State announced in July it would return to the Big Ten starting in 2013, leaving the Big Ten East with two teams - Ohio State and Michigan - beginning the season. News of the move broke on Wednesday when the Big Ten released its full football schedule. The change will likely have little immediate impact in the Big Ten East. Penn State was initially scheduled to play five Big Ten teams in 2012, but the move to Big Ten East is not expected to affect that schedule. The Buckeyes will play three teams from the Big Ten in 2012, though they'll play the same three from 2011. The Big Ten East will include Akron, Maryland, Massachusetts, Miami (OH), North Carolina and Purdue. Though the slate has changed, it will likely not mean significant changes for Meyer's team. Juice Catches Fire Show Info Episode Info Episode Info: Soko Loco were a middle of the road rock band that had been getting good press until an LA-based punk band used FACT naming them one of their Albums of the Week alongside later six-stringed disciples like The Last Vegas, The Distillers, and Stiff Little Fingers. Not, like me, they were lying through their teeth or being told how great they were, but the punters liked the band for the small dose of punk and surprisingly great pop and/or indie and came out to see them. The band split up during the spring of 1994 so they wouldn't have to play the same show twice, but they were sure the punters would love them if they did. Which they did. They recorded two albums and got as close as anyone could to a defining British indie sound, playing it with a spare cathartic swagger. The media gushed over them. Forced air guitar was written about. Rock journalists all over the world produced obituaries like Gav's remark about them. For a time the BBC made them more famous than they have ever been but when their second album was certified platinum they disappeared into the background. What happened?
